Read on your PC, Mac, smart phone, tablet or Kindle device. Keeping a house clean is a responsibility which is often perceived as difficult, tiresome, tedious and disgusting. What can be worse than cleaning a toilet or wiping off a cat vomit? However, there is no way to escape mopping, dusting and vacuum cleaning in case your mom called and said she'd come in a few days to check how you are doing. Friends, colleagues, neighbors dropping in . . . and you have to clean up the mess not to seem a slattern to all these people. Even if you hate cleaning, you have to admit that you can't avoid it. Guests are just one reason to keep your house tidy. What about you? Do you like to live in a mess? Is it comfortable for you to look for clean forks, to constantly lose your remote control, to forget where your T-shirts are? Nobody likes when their lives get out of their hands. Struggling to find your jeans, you may be late for work. Being late for work, you may lose your job. Control over your house is much more than control over your bedroom, living-room and kitchen. There is a direct connection between your outer and your inner world. A lot of people feel much better and much more organized in their personal and professional lives when their house is clean and tidy. Try to clean up your desk, and you'll see how productive you'll become in your work or studies. Having an organized house, you'll simplify your life considerably. If you can find your things easily, you don't have to worry, get angry or irritated. Peace of mind and comfort: you can find these in a clean house that is pleasant to live in. Good mood for you and your husband or wife is guaranteed if there is no chaos in your own house, and you don't have to think about a stain, dirty dish, and a gum that your son left under a table top. In addition, a clean house means a healthy atmosphere for all your family. Dust and mold cause a lot of harmful diseases, and dead air may be a reason for your lack of sleep. Clean and fresh air, on the contrary, is perfect for parents who come home tired after work and long to have a good night's sleep, and their children who require healthy environment to grow up and develop in a proper way. But how do you actually make your house clean and avoid stress? How do you maintain order if you don't have a lot of time? This guide provides a few useful tips and life hacks on no-stress cleaning for busy people. Here Is A Preview Of What You'll Learn... Chapter 1. Why Do We Need to Clean The House? Chapter 2. Customer Reviews

I have learnt quite a lot from the book. I did not think i would enjoy doing household chores until the writer explained how i can do it.The writer also explains how to write a to do list. very good book

As a young student this book was a very great find! I though to myself how can this really help me, but anyways I gave it a shot and wow..I'm amazed how the writer delivered with excellent information with simple for of writing do make sure you absolutely understand every little detail that needs to be done. This helped me a lot and literally helped me to clean my flat with ease, fast and stress free!

This is the must read book for anyone looking to get their house in order. It is not only filled with useful tips, but also gives clear step by step instructions on how to get from disorder to order without much pain. I know for me, order doesn't come naturally. This is where Dorothy doesn't fail to deliver. She gives life hacks that take the effort out of the process and make it possible right away to get your house in ship shape. This is a must read if you live in chaos but really want to see things in order!

Quick read with good tips and reminders for folks who have a cleaning schedule (whether or not it's actually adhered to) and a good read for someone who is looking for a routine or is just getting started. Also recommended for folks looking for some basic ways to clean virtually chemical free. Knocked off a couple stars for editing issues with main text and some of the recipes.
